FARM FOR VICTORY GROUP MEETS NANTON

A meeting of the F. for V. group was held in Nanton on August 9th with representatives from Brant, Vulcan, Claresholm, Champion and other areas.

There was a general discussion of harvest labour requirement, and J. K. MacKenzie, Agricultural Advisor to the National Selective Service, outlined measures that had been adopted to ease the labour shortage by utilizing service personnel, eastern harvesters and the transfer of western harvesters from areas of early and lighter crops. Assistance will be offered custom combiners moving into other areas under authorized moves.

A number of timely farm problems were discussed and motions adopted. It was agreed that 60c per hour or $6.00 per 10-hour day be considered as top wages for fully qualified men in the harvest fields.

As in the past years, the labour office service at Nanton will again be in operation. Labour representatives from other areas are advised to keep in touch with the Nanton office advising as to their labour requirements.

These Chefs Turn Out 75,000 Pies A Year

PASTRY-MAKING being the fine art that it is, as any housewife who has slaved over a hot stove will agree, it should occasion little surprise that as Chief Pastry Chef for the Canadian Pacific Railway's sleeping and dining car service, the company has a graduate of the Ghent (Belgium) School for Chefs. He is Henry De Rycke, shown right, with his four assistants and some of the pies.

So the next time you sit down in a C.P.R. diner and order pie, whether it be chicken, raisin, blueberry, apple or what have you, recall that you will be eating the pastry of Henry De Rycke (pronounced like strike-ee) who has been a pastry chef in such romantic places as Monte Carlo, Ostend and Holland, to say nothing of Canada. "From Winnipeg to Saint John—to Boston, Quebec City, too—they eat my pie!" Mr. De Rycke tells you with a sweep of a flour-dusted hand.

Mr. De Rycke enrolled in the Ghent School in 1912, graduated at the end of three years in time to enlist in the Belgian Army on his 18th birthday. Nothing happened to him in the war. "I was no hero," he modestly admits; "I cooked!"

A keen motorcyclist, De Rycke travelled extensively in England and on the Continent after the Great War, came to Canada in 1928 and liked it so well he's never gone back. Right now, in his kitchen, which is, temporarily, one of the kitchen-cars built years ago for the Harvesters' Excursions to Western Canada by the C.P.R., he and his four helpers turn out an average of 250 pies per day. Affectionately known to all the C.P.R.'s Glen Yards people at Montreal as "the pie car" Henry looks forward to the post-war years when he expects he'll be able to whet the epicure's appetite with French pastry, curlicues on the cakes, and so on. Meantime, out roll the pies in an unending stream.

INDUSTRY IN WAR AND PEACE

THERE is a tendency to optimism in the thought that full employment realized through war can be converted quite easily to full employment in peacetime through peak manufacture of peacetime goods. This overlooks the fact that implements of war are expended almost immediately, and constant destruction means constant replacement. If the world was forever dedicated to mammoth destruction, the factory wheels would revolve at ever increasing speed till men and resources were exhausted.

But the peace time economy is one of conservation. Articles made are not intended for destruction, else there would be no market for them. They are going to last the buyer for years and that is the basis of salesmanship. The stoves, the refrigeration units, the furniture, the farm equipment are not going to be blasted out of existence in ten minutes or ten days. There will be a tremendous call for such facilities after the war, and this will give great initial impetus, but in measurable time the demand will ease off to normal unless great new markets are found.

The same is true of replacement of buildings and services in bombed countries. Initial demands will be of vast proportions, but eventually these needs too will slow down.

A number of local speakers recently have been directing attention to the complexity of the Canadian situation after the war in respect to expansion in the industrial field and in agriculture. War-time factories intend to stay in business, converting their plants to peace-time manufacture. On the other hand the great agricultural production should be maintained. But the bulk of agricultural products must be exported, which involves accepting manufactured goods in exchange. This in turn will hamper sale of domestic industrial goods. The agricultural element is on guard to prevent if possible the sacrifice of agriculture in the interests of industry.

Under war demand, and in the depression years which preceded the war, a large rural element moved to the cities. The ideal population as quoted for a land like Canada is six people in the country for four in the towns. But at present the ideal has been dislocated and the proportion is now five people in the country to six in the towns. There are national economists who believe that the balance as between rural and city population must be restored in order to have a proper distribution of people. It cannot be forgotten that it was poverty on the land which brought a drift to the city in the depression years, and nothing would be gained by dumping unemployed on the land with no assurance of secure livelihood.

Canada is still primarily agricultural, and no type of life brings greater satisfaction than rural life, provided fair price levels are maintained for what the farm produces. This necessarily means substantial export markets. L. D. Nesbitt of the Alberta Wheat Pool sees in the rural population of Canada "a great undeveloped reservoir for absorption of industrial products"—provided there is a constant purchasing power through adequate prices.

If industry can be persuaded to recognize its tremendous dependence on a prosperous rural life, it may be possible to ease into peacetime adjustments without too much upset in employment. And in addition more of the Canadian population will voluntarily turn to the land.

But it is no simple matter for any government to act with absolute fairness in the question of industry vs. agricultural interests.

Recent federal housing legislation proposes expenditure of 275 million for Canadian homes. Of this 100 million will be for new homes; 50 million for low rental projects; 20 million for municipal grants for slum clearance, 5 million for loans to lending institutions for rural homes, a 100 million for repair of existing homes.

SERMONETTE

The word God in the original Hebrew was Elohim; this is a triune noun. We have no such form in our English language, so the word God, if we properly understand it, expresses the Holy Trinity. In Genesis 1:26, "God (Elohim) said, let us (plural) make man in our (plural) image." Here image is singular, but the speaker is plural. God had one image in the beginning who later identified Himself with man to be his Saviour. In 1st John 1:3 we read, "our fellowship is with the Father, and with His Son Jesus Christ." Here two persons are mentioned; the third is the Holy Spirit who indwells within the converted person and makes real this fellowship with the Father and the Son. If you are converted, you will be having fellowship with both Father and Son through the Spirit. Have you this blessed fellowship? If not, why not be converted and enter into it?

Better Farmers

Just over a year ago, we drew the attention of our readers to the agricultural courses offered to farm boys and young men in the three Prairie Provinces. We emphasized the wide variety of skills that are essential to successful farming, and pointed out that while many of these can be acquired on the farm, many others are developed much better and more quickly through special training at agricultural colleges and schools. If any reader doubts this statement, let him consult a graduate of the School of Agriculture, Olds, Alberta, or one of the farm schools connected with the Universities of Saskatchewan or Manitoba.

It is significant that discussions of post-war agriculture, by government bodies, almost without exception, emphasize the necessity of increasing the facilities for training prospective farmers. Many farm organizations have expressed similar views.

The young man who decides to devote his life to scientific research, teaching or extension must take a university degree. This usually involves Grade XI or Grade XII entrance requirement and four university terms extending from the end of September to the latter part of April. For various reasons, many farm boys will never consider enrolling in the degree course and, consequently, shorter, more practical courses are open to any farm boy 16 years or over in each of the Prairie Provinces. These shorter courses extend over two terms of about five months each.

Enquiries should be directed as follows:

Dean of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Manitoba, Winnipeg, Manitoba.
Dean of Agriculture, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan.
Dean of Agriculture, University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta.
Principal, School of Agriculture, Olds, Alberta.

Baptist, ain't you?" Sambo: "Yea, man!" Rastus: "Well, go home and see if you can find anything in yo' Bible 'bout John, the Methodist." The first great war started in Europe on July 28, 1914.

23RD PSALM FOR ALL RACES

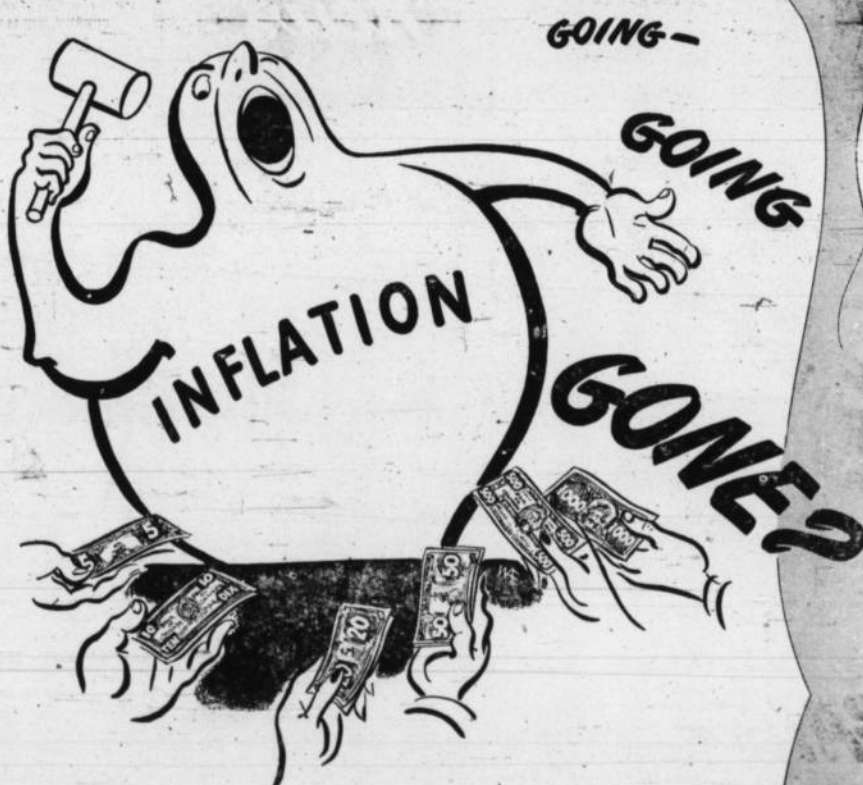

The Lord shepherds all races
Not one does He neglect;
He gives rest to everyone through the green pastures of this fact;
He leadeth His flocks away from prejudice.
He restores belief in the final fairness of life.
Even in the presence of injustices so grave that they deaden personality.
No one need fear! His justice lives! His promises, and their repeated fulfillments, comfort.
He gives the Bread of Life to all His hungry children.
Even in the presence of racial discrimination;
Impartially, He heals His bruised lambs,
The cup of living water overflows.

Surely understanding and kindness shall increase between races and between nations.
All the days of the world's life, And we shall dwell in the presence of One Shepherd Forever.

HOWERTON, ANNA ELIZABETH—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother who passed away 22nd August, 1943.

"It's sweet to remember a Mother so dear,
Though absent from us, yet ever so near;

"Unseen in the world, she stands by our side,
And whispers, 'Dear Loved Ones, death cannot divide'."

Ever remembered by her husband and family.

"HAND MILKING" IS ON THE WAY OUT, TOO!

The Modern Milking Machine has won the favor of Dairymen

Freedom from the time-taking, tiring and tiresome chore of hand milking has come to thousands of dairymen through the perfection of the modern milking machine.

The milking machine saves hours of time and labor, making easier and quicker work of a task that has long been considered as "taking a lot of the joy out of life." In these times of help shortage, it has been the milking machine that has enabled many a dairyman to keep the monthly cheques for milk and cream coming in as usual and to benefit from the great demand for dairy products.

To users of milking machines, doing the job by hand is a thing of the past—to them hand-milking belongs to the days when grain was sown broadcast by hand and crops were harvested with the sickle and the cradle.
